

Julia Dubovoy
Social Action Commissioner

Everything we do as individuals has an impact on the community and world around us. In my experience working at a non profit, I have come to realize how much the actions of the individual change the community as a whole. As social action commissioner, I would aspire to help our Kehillah become better people for the world around us. I hope to teach about environmental awareness, sustainability, and the social impact of the choices we make.

I have always loved National Parks, and their greater mission. Besides only showing us the beauty in the world, they teach us about the importance of making the world a better place by sharing knowledge and experiences. The combined experience of working at a non profit with children and doing Model UN has brought me to realize the importance of leaving the world better than we found it for the future generations.
